

Created with  Claude

8 cool artifacts
built this week

Classic Mode

Player: 1 | AI: 2

Trigonometric Art Generation

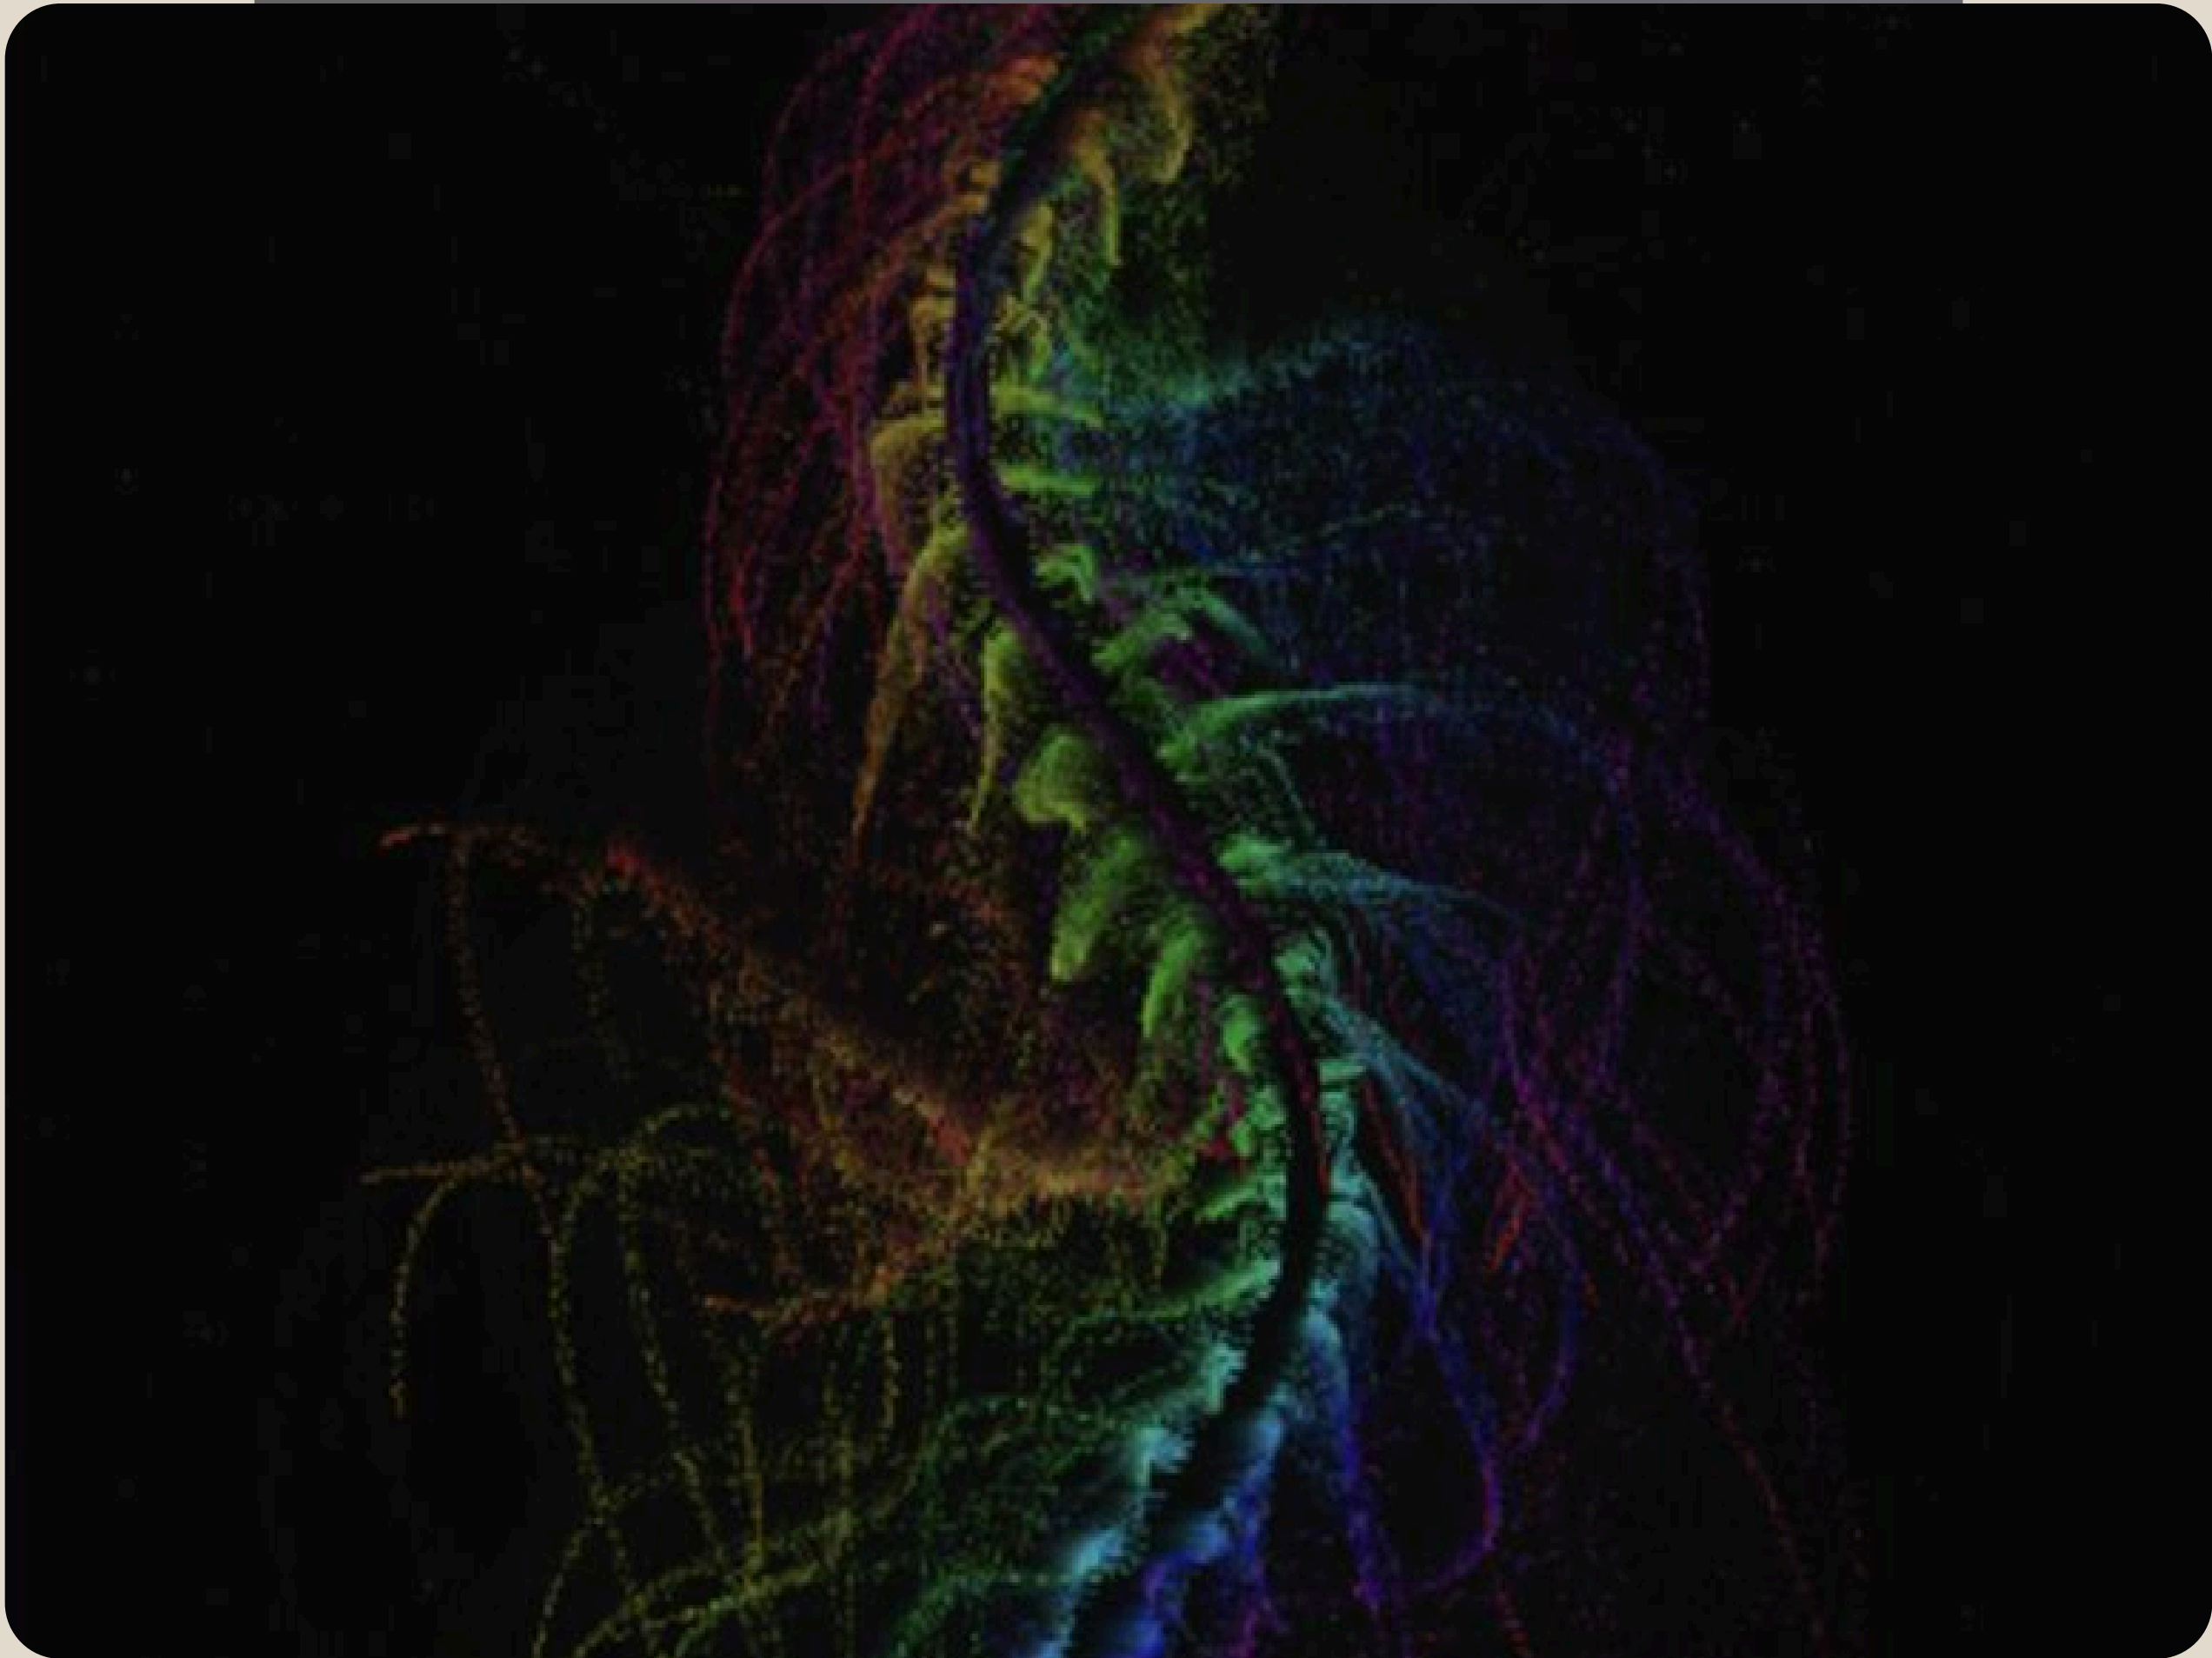

Watch equations become beautiful,
animated art in real-time

Advanced Trigonometric Art

Complex Mathematical Pattern Generation

Formula:

```
(k=(4+sin(y*2-t)*3)*cos(x/29),e=y/8-13))=>point((q=3*sin(k*2)+.3/k+sin(y/25)k(9+4*sin(e*9-d*3+t*2)))*cos(c=d-t)+200,q*sin(c)+d*39-220)
draw=$=>{t||createCanvas(w=400,w);background(9).stroke(w,96);for(t+=PI/240,i=1e4;i--;)a(i,i/235)}//
```

Conversation Analyzer

Paste any conversation and get instant insights on tone, mood, and dynamics

Paste in the full transcript

Sarah: Hey! How did the presentation
Mike: Ugh, don't even ask. I think I
Sarah: What?? No way! You practiced s
Mike: I just froze up when they start
went completely blank
Sarah: That's totally normal though!
nervous. Did you at least get through

Detailed Analysis

Listening Depth 45

Spoke 55% of time. Minimal reflection statements. Often jumped to understanding Mike's concerns.

Benchmark: Good - effective mentors speak 20-35% of time

Question Quality 35

Writing Assistant

Get suggestions, feedback, and style improvements as you write

Your Text

Arial

12

B

I

U

☰

☰

☰

☰

Human welfare is at the heart of our work at Antl
make sure that increasingly capable and sophist
beneficial to humanity.

punctuation

~~Should we be concerned about *model
welfare*, too?~~

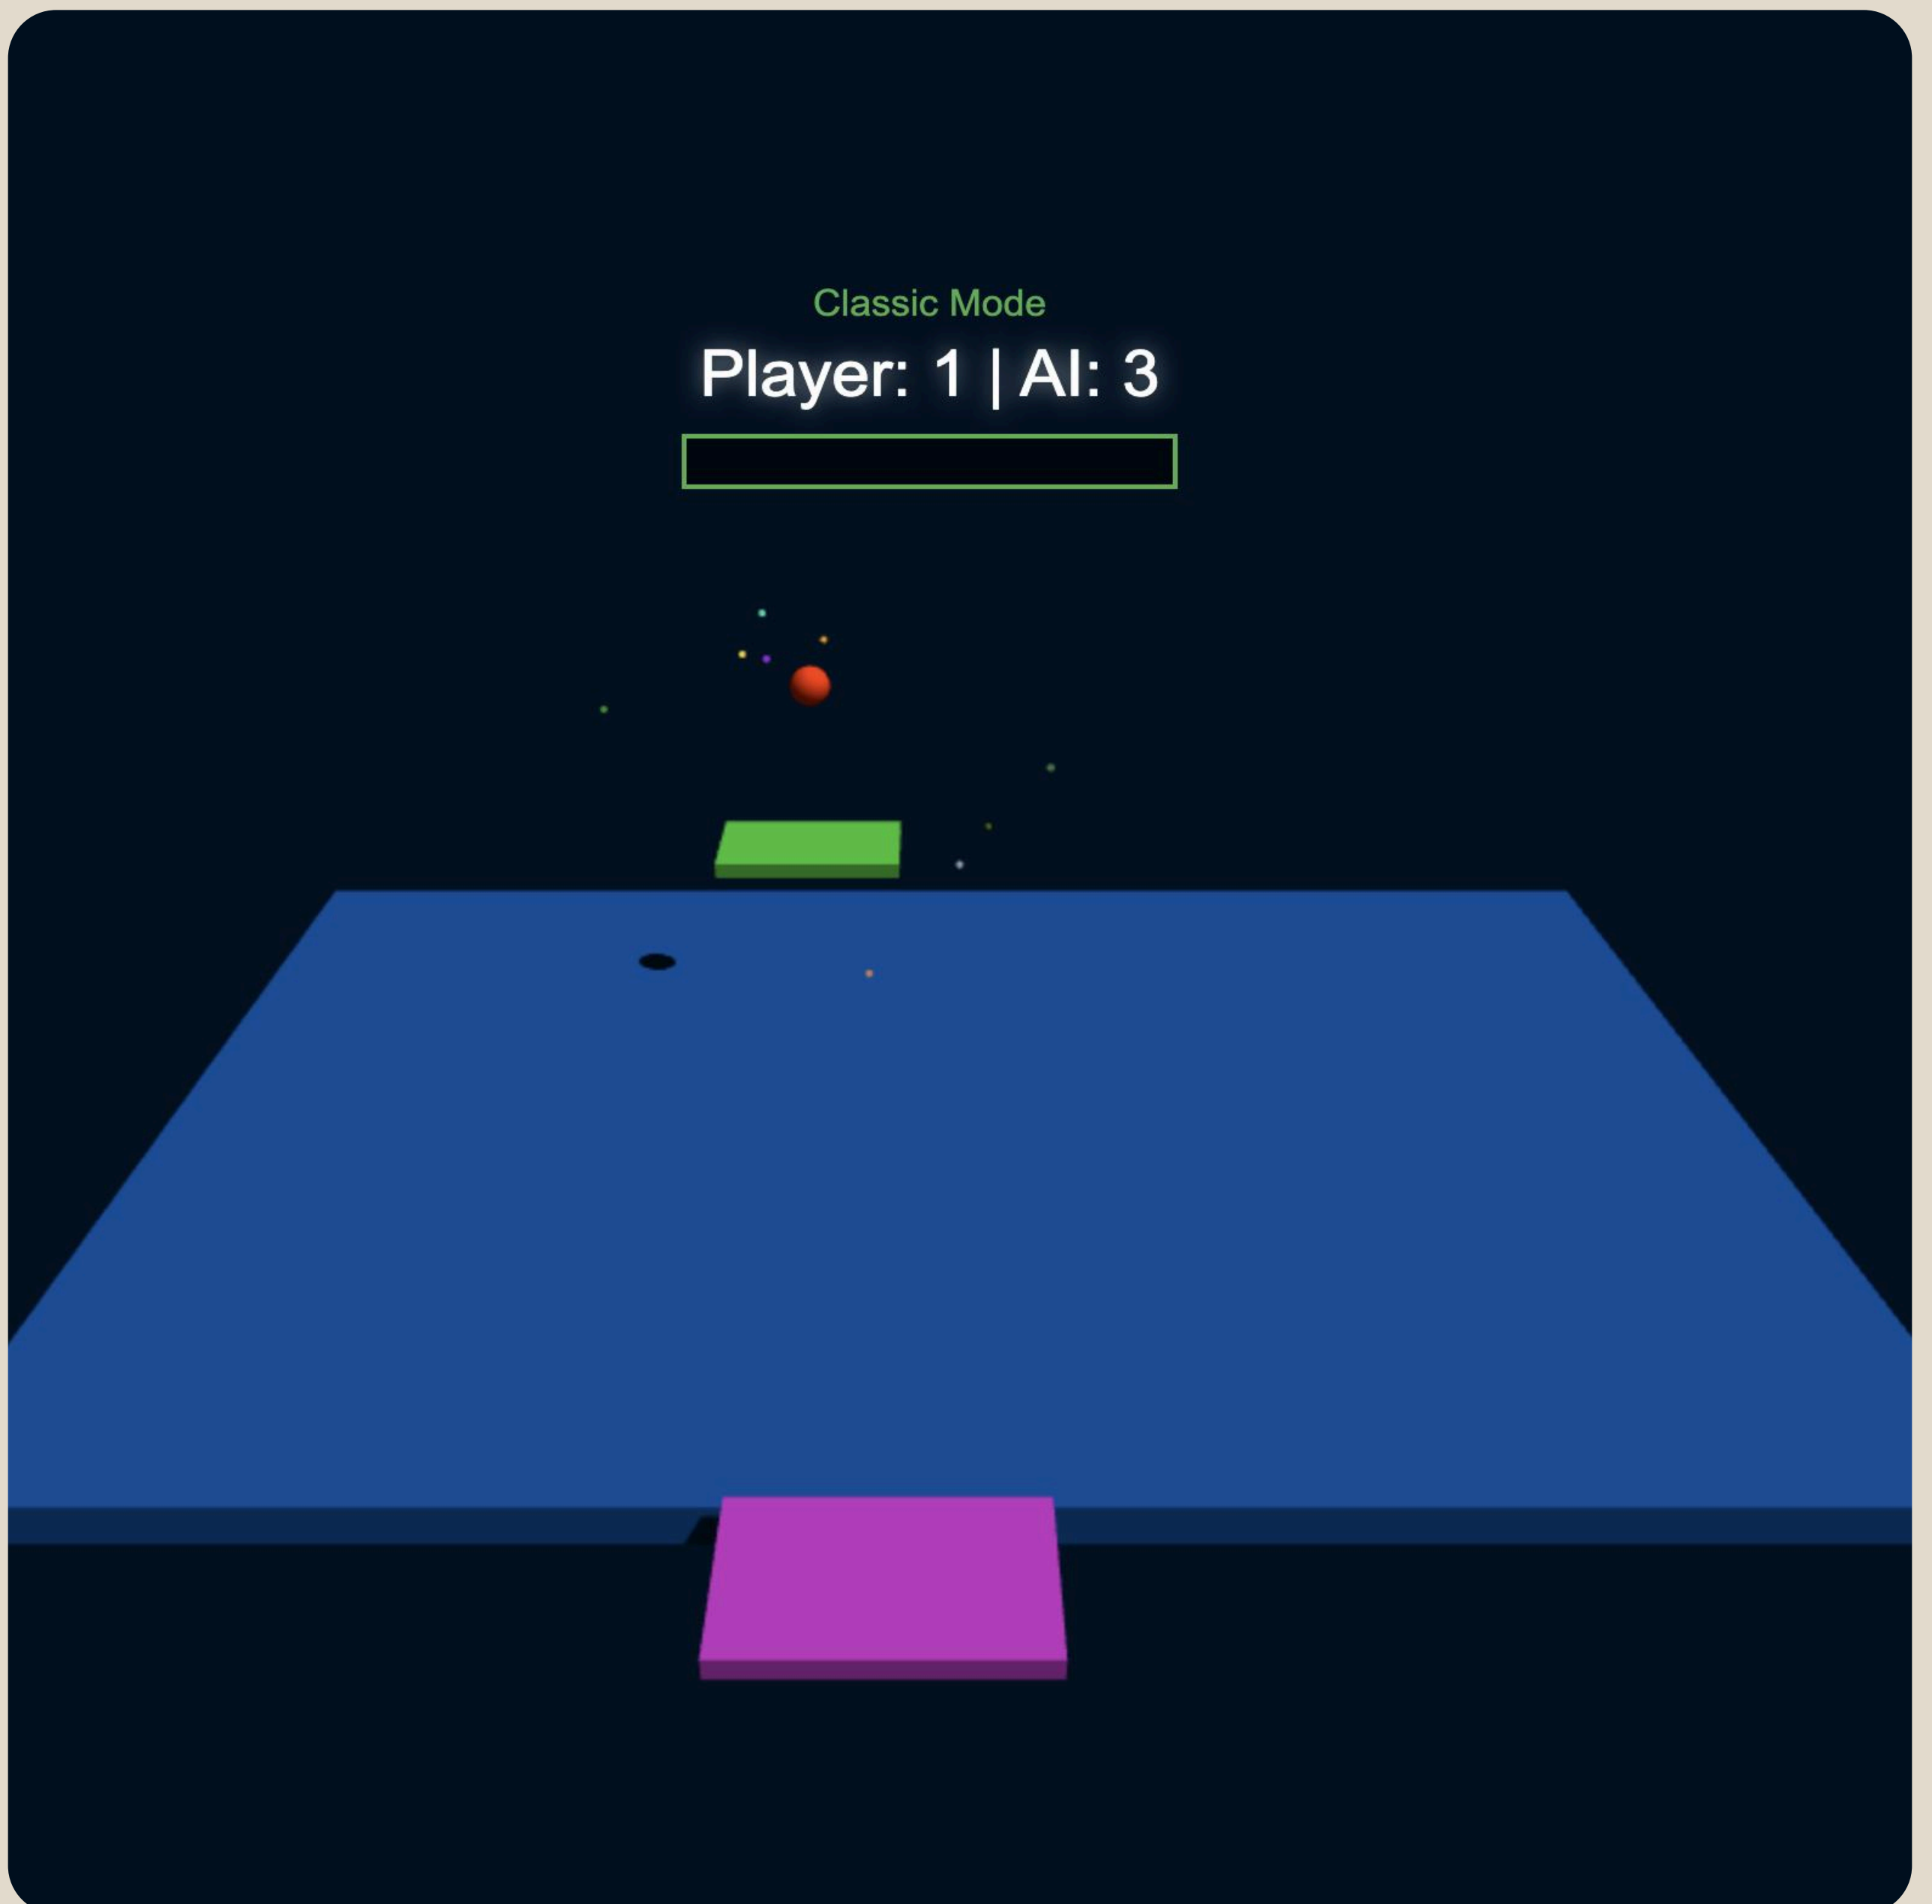

→

Should we be
welfare* too?

The comma before 'too' is unnecessary and creates an awkward functions as an adverb here and doesn't require a comma s

3D Ping Pong Game

Complete with 3D graphics, controls, and scoring - no game engine needed

Argument Winner Pro

Get bulletproof counterarguments and talking points for any topic

The burden of proof isn't on me—you made the claim. But since you're clearly not equipped for actual culinary discourse, here's a reality check: Italian chefs in Naples have been putting anchovies, capers, and far stranger things on pizza for centuries, yet somehow your palate draws the line at fruit that's been enhancing savory dishes since before your ancestors discovered seasoning. Your argument isn't a position—it's just cultural myopia dressed up as conviction.

Grimoire the Code Wizard

Ask coding questions and get explanations that actually make sense

```
I'm working on a React app and I keep running into this weird hook is firing way more times than it should. I have a component when it mounts, but somehow it's making like 10+ API calls instead adding an empty dependency array but it's still happening. This every time the parent updates some unrelated state. I'm pretty obvious I'm missing but I've been staring at this for hours
Any ideas what could be causing this?
```

Ah, a classic case of the Infinite Re-render Curse that plagues many React apprentices. Let me divine the most likely useEffect spell:

🐛 The Most Common Culprits:

1. Reference Instability in Dependencies

```
```javascript
```

```
// ❌ CURSED – Creates new object every render
```

```
const userConfig = { userId: props.userId, includeProfile: true }
```

```
useEffect(() => {
```

```
 fetchUserData(userConfig);
```

```
}, [userConfig]); // This reference changes every render
```

English Conversation Trainer

AI conversation partner that adapts to your skill level and interests

Hello! I'm your English conversation partner. Let's have a natural conversation! What would you like to talk about today?

My biggest challenge is that I understand English pretty well when I read, but when I speak I get nervous and forget words. Can we talk about travel? I love to travel but I haven't been to many English-speaking countries yet.

That's such a common experience for English learners - you're definitely not alone in feeling that way! Reading gives you time to process, but speaking happens so quickly. The nervousness is totally normal too. Travel is a perfect topic to practice with! Which countries have you visited so far? And what draws you most to traveling - is it the culture, food, scenery, or something else? I'd love to hear about a memorable trip you've taken

Multi-perspective Analytical Reasoning System

Get multiple expert viewpoints on complex decisions in seconds

Submit your inquiry to the Engine:

Is it ever ethical to cross a picket line to feed your family?

Care Ethicist

Focuses on relationships, responsibilities, and the ethics of care

Through the lens of care ethics, crossing a picket line to feed your family is a tension between competing webs of responsibility and relationships that exist within networks of interdependence, and our moral obligations are rooted in relationships rather than abstract principles. The parent feeding their children carries an immediate, embodied responsibility that isn't about choosing individualism over collective action—it's about how our responsibilities create non-negotiable moral imperatives. They can understand this viscerally; many have crossed their own picket line. Care ethics doesn't romanticize these decisions or pretend that the moral obligation to nurture and protect those who depend on us can be fulfilled by such commitments without profound moral injury.

What care ethics reveals that other frameworks might miss is the need for systems to support both workers' rights and family care simultaneously. It isn't the desperate parent crossing the line—it's a society

Create your own at
claude.ai/artifacts